RESIGNATION OF BURLESON NOW BELIEVED LIKELY

Changes in Cabinet May Be Expected, Says Correspondent, in Discussing Federation of Labor Resolution.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
The News-Scimitar's Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Must Burleson go? The resolutions adopted unanimously by the American Federation of Labor, in their annual convention at Atlantic City, demanding the removal of Albert Sidney Burleson as postmaster-general, constitute the first public demand ever made by that organization or any other labor body for the dismissal of a member of President Wilson's cabinet.

The administration of Mr. Wilson has been particularly friendly to labor, when Congress in 1913 created a department of labor the president selected as the first head of that department an official of the American Federation of Labor, William B. Wilson.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, has always had the ear of President Wilson and has been given free hand at the Paris peace conference, wherever questions of labor have been discussed in connection with the covenant of the league of nations or any other international action.

Strong Effect Expected.

Because of these facts and circumstances it is not doubted here that the action by Gompers' organization, and unanimous action at that, will have a profound effect upon President Wilson.

Were it not for the fact that many people in the national capital are silent in concurrence with the postmaster-general's views on labor, they differ with him on other questions, the resolutions at Atlantic City would have been taken upon a pressing or basis for action by the president.

But, at the capital particularly, where Mr. Wilson is repeatedly accused of catering too much to labor, was plain to see that some men thought it would be highly undesirable for any member of the cabinet to be removed in this time for a refusal to resign.

On the other hand, the progressive elements, who count themselves champions of labor and who agree with the substance of the resolutions, are not inclined to see that some men thought it would be highly undesirable for any member of the cabinet to be removed in this time for a refusal to resign.

William Jennings Bryan, as secretary of the cabinet, left the cabinet because of a difference of opinion between himself and the president on a fundamental administrative policy with respect to Germany. Mr. Bryan had been resigned as secretary of war because of a disagreement on military policy.

Gregory and McAdoo.

The resignation of McAdoo, Gregory and McAdoo were for personal reasons, the first being elevated to the supreme court of the United States and the last two being anxious to return to private life to increase their financial income.

Not one member of the cabinet, however, has been resigned. Mr. Wilson and Garrison resigned voluntarily without the slightest hint or suggestion from the president.

There was a time, too, when Secretary Baker offered to resign, if he were embarrassed the president in any way, but Mr. Wilson steadfastly refused to accept his resignation. On the contrary, he wrote Baker a letter praising him for his courage and declaring his criticism of him.

If the president were to take cognizance of the resignation of Mr. Wilson and ask for Burleson's resignation, it would be the first case of its kind in the history of the United States. It would remove several officials below cabinet rank.

The cases have been rare, and usually cabinet officers have seemed to be sponsors for the action, but the direction or instructions for removal came from the president himself. No instance of a cabinet officer being removed because of a desire not to embarrass the president has been recorded.

There was a time, too, when Secretary Baker offered to resign, if he were embarrassed the president in any way, but Mr. Wilson steadfastly refused to accept his resignation. On the contrary, he wrote Baker a letter praising him for his courage and declaring his criticism of him.

Has Stood by Members.

Thus far the president has always stood firm by members of his administration. He has refused to permit anybody to be "the goat."

The demand for the removal of Postmaster-General Burleson, however, is different from any other case ever known in the history of the United States. It is the demand of the Democratic party, the political family, the conspicuous members of the Democratic national committee have made it plain to him by letter and otherwise that Postmaster-General Burleson is an insuperable obstacle to the political success of the Democratic party, on the ground that he has alienated hundreds of thousands of voters.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The commercial telegraphers' strike, according to a statement from strike headquarters here today, will continue as long as "the Wilson administration stands on record as denying us the right to work."

The statement charged the telegraph companies with taking advantage "of our awaiting action by the American Federation of Labor by circulating false reports about desertion from our ranks and that the strike would soon be over."

After first declaring "no one had struck," the statement continues, "now they are offering false inducements for strikers to return. As a matter of fact, the number of telegraph workers on strike was increasing steadily and would so continue."

MASON BLOCKS SUIT IN CITY

Miller May Continue in Police Department—Mason Will Resign After Tax Rate Is Fixed, But Not Now.

The plan to remove C. W. Miller, vice-mayor and police commissioner, and transfer him to the finance department, seems to have struck a political snag.

The success of the plan to place C. B. Quinn in charge of the police department depends upon the vote of A. D. Mason, commissioner of finance, or that of Leo Goodman, commissioner of public utilities.

Shortly before the adjourned meeting of the commission for 2 o'clock it was doubtful if Mr. Mason or Mr. Goodman would vote for the transfer. It can not be made without the vote of one of them.

A final conference was held Friday at noon, and before it ended Mr. Miller was called in. He indicated that he would be declared. Mr. Mason's vote had been counted on to make the switch.

Mr. Mason has intended to resign for some time. He said Friday that it is still his intention to hand his resignation to the mayor, but that he will not leave the city commission until the present tax investigation has been completed. He has been forced to neglect his private business until he feels compelled to give it more attention.

Since the question of transferring Miller from the police to the finance department was proposed, Mr. Mason has investigated that department rather thoroughly and is of the opinion that it is much more efficient than he had supposed. He will not vote, he said Friday, to transfer Miller to the finance department if he is convinced that it is proposed simply in order to organize a connection with the investigation of the anti-labor laws, were brought to Mr. Miller's attention more than a month ago.

Efforts have been made to force C. W. Miller, vice-mayor, to resign. He has refused to do so, and has been forced to neglect his private business until he feels compelled to give it more attention.

Three or four men, whose names are carried on the police payroll, but who report to the mayor or to Commissioner Mason, and not to the police and police commissioner, are said to have secured this alleged evidence. But while they are engaged in this work, they are neglecting their duties as police officers.

More Tributes Are Paid By Friends Of Sergeant Brinkley

Capt. Peters Lee of the Lee line steamers has arranged a benefit for the family of Sgt. Brinkley and Officer Andrew White, two officers who were killed in the performance of their duty. It is expected that the Lee line co-operation will produce $500 for each family.

Capt. Lee visited the police station and readily enlisted the support of Commissioner Miller, Chief Burney and other officers in the department. He made the offer to The News-Scimitar office and explained his plans.

He has supplied the police department with 2,000 tickets to be sold at 50 cents each for a trip on the steamer Prince, and 400 Thursday night and 400 Friday night. The Prince leaves each evening at 8:30 and will make a round trip of a 25-mile moonlight excursion and afternoon on Wednesday and Sunday.

The rule prohibiting police from selling tickets has been broadened for the occasion. One-half the proceeds of the sale of the tickets will be given to the family of Sgt. Brinkley and the other half will go to the family of Officer Andrew White.

The text of the message reads: "The national assembly at Weimar tried to constitute a majority in favor of signing the peace treaty. That was impossible because of division among the members."

"All news regarding changes in the cabinet is premature."

The downfall of the Scheidemann government was made known today by the American delegation to the peace conference. It was believed to assure the signing of the peace treaty by Germany, as Philipp Scheidemann, the premier, was expected to resign.

The council of the three, composed of Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and President Wilson, met this afternoon and it is understood discussed the German situation and the Italian cabinet crisis.

The council also was expected to take up the unexpected sections of the Austrian peace treaty.

The Italian delegation to the peace conference has been directed from Rome to accept the proposition for settlement of the Dalmatian controversy made by Premiers Clemenceau and President Wilson, met this afternoon and it is understood discussed the German situation and the Italian cabinet crisis.

SCHOULTZ FATE MAY HANG UPON GUST OF WIND

Calendar With Alibi Dates Marked Was Blown From Office Window in Exchange Building and Lost.

FINALLY RECOVERED BY Y. M. C. A. FRIEND

Rev. Ben Cox Testifies His Daughter Would Be Engaged Only to Man of Good Character.

That sensational revelations regarding the "Dr." Ture W. Scholtz case which were not revealed during the trial, would be made from the public of the Central Baptist church next Sunday night, was the statement Friday morning made by Rev. Ben Cox, pastor of the church, and prospective father-in-law of the defendant Scholtz.

Asked regarding the nature of the revelations, Dr. Cox said that he could not make them public until he did so in his sermon. But he promised a sensation.

Dr. Cox stated that the subject of his sermon would be "Prosecution, or Persecution."

A vagrant wind of wind, which wafted through the corridors and offices of the Exchange building several weeks ago, tore from its fastenings a calendar hanging on the wall of the office of Dr. Willis Campbell, on the tenth floor.

The calendar went out the window and sailed gracefully, vagrant streetward, borne on the wings of the wind.

On that morning, however, the fate of the "Dr." Ture W. Scholtz, masseur, who is on trial in First criminal court, charged with attempting to violate the law of consent law.

For the calendar, in ink rings about certain dates in the months of March and April, the indications of mornings between 8 and 9 o'clock that the Swedish masseur was absent from his office.

The calendar was kept by Miss Virginia, a nurse in the hospital. It was found by Mrs. Minnie Meyers, a private detective, who had been requested by the Rev. Ben Cox to investigate the case.

Dr. Cox identified the calendar.

Rev. Cox identified the inked ring calendar as the one given to him by Mrs. Meyers.

Miss dates corroborated the stand by the court, who granted both sides the privilege of treating her as a hostile witness. She stated that the calendar was found by her on the tenth floor.

The calendar, broken into defense contents, was brought into the court record when W. T. McLean, assistant attorney general, called back to the stand Mrs. Esther C. Polk, office assistant to the masseur on trial.
